Welcome to...

Did you know...

Saline County is bordered by the Missouri River on the north. It was named for the many salt deposits found in the natural springs in the region. Salt was a necessity to pioneers making the perilous journey through Missouri to western territories.
In the middle of rich farm country, Marshall, Missouri offers something for everyone.

Located in Saline County, Marshall is a modern agricultural community, where a scenic drive will show you our deep farming roots. It’s where we celebrate a rich aviation history, an uncanny canine named “Jim”, picturesque barn quilts, a sprawling 300-acre park, and a warm, small town hospitality that will make you feel right at home.

Stroll around the majestic Courthouse Square, enjoy quaint eateries, cheer on the Missouri Valley College Vikings, or shuck an ear of corn. We invite you to visit Marshall. Come... sit a while, and stay.

Marshall, Missouri...where nineteenth century homes stand proud, progressive agri-businesses thrive and local charm abounds.

We invite you to Meet us in Marshall!
Jim the Wonder Dog Museum and Garden

Marshall's history includes an incredible story about Jim the Wonder Dog. In the 1920's, Jim gained national publicity for performing uncanny feats all over the country. Named the “State Wonder Dog of Missouri,” Jim's legend is inspiring. Follow your nose to the Jim the Wonder Dog Museum and Garden and see for yourself. You will be amazed!

Pennytown

During the post-Civil War era, a sixty-four acre plot of land south of Marshall was purchased by freed slaves, called Pennytown. It was the largest of Saline County’s historic black hamlets. This once thriving black community now consists of a refurbished church and historic markers describing life during this important time in our nation. Take a step back in time—make plans to visit Pennytown.

In the early 1900’s, Marshall played an important part in our country’s aviation history. Experience the story of how airplanes were built here, the Marshall Flying School, and the inspiring partnership between Russell Nicholas and Howard Beazley. The Nicholas-Beazley Aviation Museum is filled with interactive exhibits, restored airplanes and memorabilia. This new museum is a must see for all ages, including an interactive Young Aviators Museum. Individual or group tours are available.
